On 5th June, 2024, to celebrate the World Environment Day, all the doctor faculties, medical students and staff members of B.J. Medical College, Civil Hospital, Ahmedabad have taken a pledge to save the environment during the awareness program carried out to save and nurture the environment at the Auditorium, B.J. Medical College. The pledge signified the importance of nature in everyday lives and means and methods to preserve it. An informative session was conducted under the guidance of highly respected dignitaries, highlighting the urgency of environmental conservation. The event witnessed the presence of esteemed dignitaries, including local government officials, environmental activists, and renowned academics. Various topics describing the effects of deforestation, pollution, climate change on the environment and the importance of biodiversity were discussed.

Practical tips on waste reduction, recycling and consumption of sustainable energy sources were also shared. Participants also pledged to adopt eco-friendly habits, reduce waste, conserve energy and protect biodiversity. The pledge emphasized individual responsibility in mitigating climate change and preserving natural resources for future generations. The program saw the members of “GO GREEN BJMC” movement, including several undergraduate medical students and the whole team of gardeners, were felicitated with mementoes by the dignitaries.

"GO GREEN BJMC" movement has been constantly running since 2019 to make a lush green campus. With the constant support of the faculty members, medical students and staff members, the green revolution movement in the campus has achieved its prized accolades. At the end of program, 50 trees were planted in the B. J. Medical College Campus.

The support and participation of the dignitaries alongside "GO GREEN BJMC" members underscored the importance of collective action in addressing environmental challenges. In this program esteemed dignitaries such as Dr. Rakesh Joshi, Medical Superintendent, Civil Hospital, Dr. Hansa Goswami, Dean, B.J. Medical College, Dr. Dharmesh Patel, Additional Dean, B.J. Medical College, Dr. Kalpesh Shah, Ex-Dean, B.J. Medical College, Dr. J. P. Modi, Ex-Medical Superintendent, Civil Hospital were present along with the medical faculties of the college and hospital, medical students and staff members. This World Environment Day celebration at B.J. Medical College served as a platform to unite the individuals in the global movement for environmental protection and the concept of sustainability. Through education, advocacy, and action, participants reaffirmed their commitment to protect our planet and to create a greener, healthier future for the upcoming generations.
